Spanish Economy: latest figures and comments

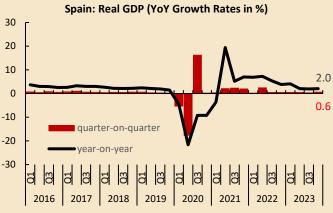

Spanish GDP performance has exceeded expectations in Q4 2023 and for the entire year 2023. According to estimates released by the Spanish Statistical Office (INE), GDP grew by 0.6% QoQ in Q4 2023, surpassing the growth of 0.4% QoQ in Q3 (revised upwards by 0.1% from the previous estimate). Annual growth also accelerated, with a YoY variation of 2.0% in Q4, up from 1.9% YoY in Q3. Consequently, average GDP growth for 2023 was 2.5%, lower than in 2022 (5.8%) but above the expectations of most analysts. Growth in 2023 resulted both from a positive contribution of internal demand (1.7%) and net exports (0.8%).

The moderation in 2023 growth in comparison with 2022, was in line with the trends observed internationally. However, Spain continued to significantly outperform the Euro Area: GDP grew by 0.5% in the Euro Area in 2023 according to Eurostat (with a 0.0% QoQ variation in Q4 2023). As a result, Spanish GDP growth was approximately five times stronger than in the Euro Area.

Labour market maintained its strength in 2023, consistent with the overall activity trends. According to the INE Labour Force Survey, employment increased by 783 thousand from Q4 2022 to Q4 2023, and the total number of employed individuals reached 21.25 million by the end of 2023. In 2023, Spain achieved its historical maximum of workers. Consequently, unemployment also decreased, with 193 thousand fewer unemployed in Q4 2023 compared to the previous year. The unemployment rate exhibited a downward trend, reaching its lowest level since 2008 in 2023.

Annual CPI slowed down significantly in 2023. General CPI stood at 3.1% in December 2023 vs 5.7% one year before (in January 2024 was 3.4%), while core CPI (all-items excluding energy and unprocessed food) stood at 3.8% in December 2023 vs 7.0% in December 2022 (in January 2024 it decreased further to 3.6%). Therefore, the downward trend is especially visible in core CPI, as general CPI is more affected by base effects and energy prices.

In 2024, the Spanish economy is expected to maintain its resilience, partly driven by a more intense deployment of Next Generation EU funds. The Spanish Government, that in 2023 was the most accurate institution in GDP projections, foresee that GDP will grow by 2.0% in 2024. In addition, there is a wide consensus in the sense that Spanish GDP growth will remain well above the Euro Area. According to the European Central Bank and the Bank of Spain, GDP is projected to grow by 0.8% in the Euro Area and by 1.6% in Spain in 2024. This growth is consistent with a decrease in inflation, particularly in core CPI, which, according to this forecast, will be 1.9% in Spain in 2024. The International Monetary Fund foresees that Spanish GDP will grow by 1.5% in 2024, above its forecast for the Euro Area (0,9%), while in 2025 growth will be 2.1% in Spain (1.7% in the Euro Area).
